Skilled operation of the bus by the driver, Fred Mund, 38, Oakland, was said by passengers to have averted a more serious accident.

Shall We Be Driven In to Bolshevism?

HE BELIEVED IN THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE (Borglum's Statue of Abraham Lincoln)

Every intelligent American with ordinary foresight will readily admit that unless the present tendency toward fanatical prohibitory legislation is changed, the people are liable to ultimately seek a remedy in Bolshevism.

Lincoln maintained that you cannot fool all the people all of the time; and you cannot make laws that rob people of the inalienable rights due them under a democratic government and "get away" with it for an indefinite period.

In his first inaugural address, the great President spoke of the rights of the people.

"If," he declared, "by mere force of numbers a majority should deprive a minority of any clearly written constitutional right, it might, in a moral point of view, justify a revolution—certainly would if such a right were a vital one."

We can accurately be termed a law-ridden nation at this time. We have so many laws that it is difficult to get justice. And it is unquestionable that citizens are often deprived of constitutional rights.

The danger is obvious. Ex-Secretary Hughes, on one occasion, compared the various legislatures of these United States to law factories.

CARILLO CASE IS DISMISSED

Lack of evidence against Marcel Carillo resulted in the dismissal of charges of battery preferred against him by Salome Herrera, husband of Mrs. Jessie Carillo who suffered from hallucinations as a result of the reported attack of Carillo. Announcement of the dismissal was made in Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Alstrom's court yesterday.

Carillo was arrested several weeks ago when charges that he had attempted to attack Mrs. Herrera and threatened her with a knife, were made by Herrera.

Mrs. Herrera was taken to the county hospital suffering from hallucinations, and the trial of Carillo was put off until her recovery. The removal of the woman to a state institution resulted in the dropping of the charges against Carillo.

Will S. Robinson represented Carillo. Recommendations that the charges be dropped were made by Deputy District Attorney Hiram E. Jacobs.

Off Stage Acting Feature Part Of Mendelssohn Play

Leading men on the stage are sometimes leading men behind the stage. This will be the case with Arthur Irwin and Charles Parker, men in the chorus of the "Garden of the Shah" to be presented in the California theatre the nights of February 20 and 21. Off-stage acting will be their specialty those nights when they will announce "the coming of the Shah" and "the coming of the Shah." "Voices of the stage" will be their specialty and they will be good too.

SAN PABLO AIR FIELD LEASED

Lease of the San Pablo air field to Frank Peabody of San Francisco by Fred K. Wood, the present owner has been announced. The intention of the lessee is to install a dozen hangars and five or six planes according to the announcement made at the time of the making of the lease. Announcement of the lease was made known when a local real estate dealer sought to lease the field from Wood. The field will be equipped for commercial purposes by the present holder, who is connected with the Bank of Italy.

Richmond once operated the field as a municipal air port, but the venture was dropped and private interests have handled the field, using it for occasional landing of outside planes. As the field is admirably located there is a possibility that it may become an important link in the chain now being established throughout the country, according to expression made here.

Bus service connecting the Southern Pacific and Richmond ferry is being considered by the company and the possibilities of increasing the ferry service in the near future will also be up before the company.

At the same time the Southern Pacific company is studying the situation, Councilman Paulsen will present to the council the proposition made by the Key System, that it would operate busses to Mira Vista and East Richmond providing the city would stand any loss sustained in the operation of the service. This would be a temporary plan to be tried for three months. Column Advises Expectant Mother On Personal Needs

I am an expectant mother, and would appreciate some advice about my clothes. I have everything ready for baby, and I have very little money left to spend on myself. Just before baby is born I am going into a hospital near my home. What will I need in the way of clothing? The hospital furnishes nothing and I cannot get any information about what I shall need. I will appreciate any help you can give me.

MRS. DORA

Of course a lot depends upon the type of hospital to which you are going, but I am taking it for granted that it is a moderately priced place and am making suggestions accordingly.

Six nightgowns, opened down the front will be quite sufficient. You even may be able to manage on four or five; one pair white stockings, a pair of comfortable slippers, a dainty bed jacket to be worn over the nightgown.

If you have long hair, you will need two dainty caps, a kimono and a loose housegown are also advisable. Other necessary articles are underclothes, handkerchiefs, laundry bag and toilet articles.

The street clothing worn to the hospital will doubtless be suitable for wearing home. Don't forget to take with you a little note book and pencil for copying baby's records and for notes and suggestions gleaned from the nurses, etc.

Mrs. R. L. B. of Newark, asks for a recipe for sweet potato gratin. Here is a dandy recipe for this delightful dish, as the Southern mammy of a generation or two ago prepared it:

Wash and peel six medium-size potatoes and cook in boiling water until tender but not soft. Cut in thick slices. Put a layer in a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and one tablespoon brown sugar. Repeat layers of potato and seasonings until all is used. Four three-quarter cup rich milk or cream over top. Cover with buttered crumbs and grated cheese and bake in a moderate oven one-half hour.

BERTHA: On most steamers people change into other clothes for dinner. Often they are of the same tailored or sports variety as those worn on deck. Others dress in evening clothes—rather semi-evening clothes. Such dress should not be elaborate. You get your dining room seats from the head steward.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. Should asparagus be eaten with the fingers?

A. No. All that is edible of the stalk can be cut from it with a fork.

Q. When a man is walking with a woman and she salutes friends should the man remove his hat even if he does not know them?

A. Yes. He also raises his hat when a woman under his escort receives some courtesy from a stranger.

Q. When a death, an illness or an accident necessitates the postponement of a wedding for which invitations have been issued, how should the guests be notified?

A. The parents of the bride notify the invited guests of the change in the program by promptly issuing cards announcing the postponement.

Q. What is the correct fee for the clergyman who officiates at a wedding?

A. Never less than $5. A great deal, of course, depends upon the groom's financial status.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

COLLARS ARE IMPORTANT

In the modes of the present season collars play an important part. To the left is a daytime frock in beige flat crepe trimmed with embroidery and buttons. The collar is a distinctive feature, the tie-ends extending straight down the front, outlining a vest effect. The skirt is plaited, and an embroidery motif done in cross-stitch lends cachet to the top of the vest and lower edge of the blouse. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch material.

Equally becoming to the youthful or matronly figure is the second model, with long narrow collar distinguishing the neckline. Printed silk is used for the blouse, the skirt being of crepe satin in plain color. Finishing the blouse is a three-piece yoke, which is arranged over the skirt to produce the two-piece effect. Medium size requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch figured and 2 yards plain material.

First Model: Pictorial Review Printed Pattern No. 3915. Sizes 14 to 18 years and 34 to 44 bust, 45 cents. Embroidery No. 13144, transfer, blue or yellow, 35 cents.

Second Model: Printed Pattern No. 3894. Sizes 14 to 18 years and 34 to 44 bust, 45 cents.

A sense of humor is one of the most important assets for any marriage. It is a real necessity for without it many a happy home has been needlessly wrecked.

Don't take everything that every one says seriously. Remember that there is such a thing as kidding, and that husbands—or wives—sometimes indulge in it.

It is so easy to take things seriously, to harbor a grudge for months or even years, because of some imagined slight. But such a course of action can only lead to disaster. We are bound to see what we are looking for in any situation. With a mind poisoned by suspicion, even the most innocent incidents can be twisted into something sinister.

When your husband or your wife says something you think is an insult, see if it can't be made into a joke. Laugh about it. Good humor is infectious, and a good laugh is always sure to clear the atmosphere.

Dear Patricia Lee:

About four years ago we had a little party to celebrate our wedding anniversary. One of the guests got my husband quite drunk. My husband got up and put his arms around his friend's wife and said, "I am tired of my wife. I want somebody else—my wife is too fat."

Evidently he doesn't think that I am good enough for him. That is what hurts me so. I feel that he doesn't care for me any more. I have grieved over it for four years. He says he loved me, and we have two fine children, but still I sit here worrying myself to death. Please tell me what to do.—WASHINGTONIAN.

Dear "Washingtonian":

The first thing for you to do is to go to the mirror and look yourself squarely in the eye and tell yourself that you've been all kinds of a fool. Perhaps that sounds harsh, but you need to be harsh with yourself. For four years you have harbored a slight against your husband, and you have let your imagination play upon a remark that was made in fun during a party. Of course your husband was joking. He thought that he could rely on your understanding of his real feeling for you and on your sense of humor, but both of them failed him.

Forget all about it. Put it down to the hilarious mood of the moment.

But here's one thing you might do: If you really think you're fatter than you should be, try exercise and diet and reduce. Make yourself so attractive and so agreeable that you couldn't possibly have a rival. No man wants a wife who sits around grieving over a fancied insult.

The best way to lose your husband would be to go right on with your present feeling of martyrdom. Have a good laugh over it, and forget all about it—except as a lesson to yourself not to take yourself so seriously.—PATRICIA LEE.

Dear Patricia Lee:

I think a lot of a young medical student. I have never been with him, but he came to my house to meet my people, and he has brought his sister down to meet me. "THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

Center: Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jackie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the Synagogue. On the Eve of the Day of Atonement he finds Jackie singing in a "beer garden." He whips the child and Jackie runs off. Ten years elapse. Jackie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, meets Mary Dale, a dancer whom he has long admired. Mary becomes a part of Jack in her vaudeville act. Back in the New York Ghetto the Cantor still renounces his son, but his wife deplores as much as ever the loss of their only child.

Mrs. Rabinowitz sank down in the Morris chair and swayed slowly back and forth, moaning softly to herself. After a while she pulled a letter from the front of her dress and looked longingly at the envelope. She turned it over and inspected the reverse side gravely. Then she held it to her lips and kissed it again and again. But she was interrupted by a knock. Quickly replacing the letter in the bosom of her dress, she went over to the door and opened it.

"Mr. Yudelzon," she exclaimed. "Come in. It is a pleasure we should see you. The Cantor is laying down."

"Good evening, Mrs. Rabinowitz," Moishe Yudelzon stepped into the room. Save for a more perceptible thinness of beard and a few additional wrinkles, Yudelzon, too, had changed but little with the years. "I just came to see how is the Cantor."

"He is a little tired, so he lays down to rest. Sit down, Mr. Yudelzon. The visitor nodded and rose. "Well, goodbye, Mrs. Rabinowitz. Tell the Cantor I'll come back soon. I'll tell him you was here, Mr. Yudelzon," Mrs. Rabinowitz let her visitor out and returned to her chair.

She sat pondering over the letter Yudelzon had just read. She knew her Jackie was a big actor in the theatre. And maybe he would soon be in New York. Her heart jumped at the very thought of seeing her boy again. She wondered whether he had grown tall; whether he had changed very much from the little Jackie she had known. She couldn't visualize this new person called Jack Robin at all. All she could see was the child who looked like her son as she remembered it.

And who was this girl that Jackie spoke of? And what was she like? Was he very deeply interested in her? Was he in love? These questions surged in her mother's heart. Jackie had never mentioned any girls in his previous letters. This one seemed to be the first to interest him. He had said that she had got him a job. Perhaps, then, his concern had to do purely with a business relationship. At any rate she had evidently been kind to Jackie, and that was a satisfaction in its way.

But what were girls like who acted in theatres? The Cantor had disapproved of the theatre for his son—but perhaps that had been mainly because he had set his heart on the boy becoming a Cantor. She knew very little of theatrical life, Yudelzon cleared his throat and painstakingly spelled out the letter.

"Omaha, June fourth," he read. "Dear Mamma: I thought you would like to know I am getting along great in vaudeville. He says he has a good job in vaudeville. Yudelzon turned to the anxious Sara to repeat, in his own words, the contents of Jackie's message. "And maybe I will soon be a headliner," mumbled the interpreter. "He says he should become maybe a headliner."

"A headliner? What is?" questioned the puzzled Mrs. Rabinowitz, reaching for the letter to look at it herself.

"A headliner is a—a—a headliner is the best actor in the theatre with his name on the electric lights. He should make plenty money."

"So, my Jackie is a headliner," Mrs. Rabinowitz nodded proudly. "Nu, what else?" She handed the letter back to Yudelzon.

"And a wonderful girl whose name is Mary Dale got me my big chance out in 'Frisco,'" Yudelzon read. "He says a girl give him his job."

"A girl? So, does he say what is her name?" Mrs. Rabinowitz asked eagerly.

"Sure. He says—she says," Yudelzon reread the letter to find the name. "It is 'Mary Dale.'"

"H-m-m-m!" Mrs. Rabinowitz was becoming concerned. "Read it again what he says about the girl."

"And a wonderful girl whose name is Mary Dale got me my big chance out in 'Frisco,'" Yudelzon repeated, watching his listener's face closely. "Nu, anything else?"

Before a shimmering silver drop that fell in languorous folds and swaying forms in gossamer green gauze through a mass of delicate measures. Ten pattering pairs of feet wore pink shoes, petals, in high relief against the background a rippling fountain nymph caught in a lavender rainspray whirled and eddied in a vortex of mellifluous harmonies. Lament flames of limpid amber immersed the symphony in a golden fluid of light. The audience thundered its applause.

DOROTHY GISH IN FILM TODAY AT CALIFORNIA

Dorothy Gish and Antonio Moreno, two American players can be credited with a great deal of the success which "Madame Pompadour" British National's new Paramount release is sure to win. In the picture which will be shown at the California theatre today, they show potentialities of becoming as popular a romantic team as the Vilma Banky-Ronald Colman combination. The love story which these two tell as Pompadour and her impoverished sweetheart is one that will be remembered long after the spectator has left the lobby.

Herbert Wilcox, the man responsible for "Nell Gwyn" directed under the supervision of E. A. Dupont, the director of "Variety," Frances Marion's adaptation of the Schaner-Wellsch play is an expert piece of work. Roy O'Neil, who has contributed some gorgeous photographic effects.

In the supporting roles a group of English players give excellent support. The following especially stand out in important roles: Gibb McLaughlin, Comete Maurepas; Nelson Keys, Duke de Courcellette; Cyril McLaglan, Gogo and Tom Reynolds, Prunier.

The story is one of France in the eighteenth century. It traces the life of Pompadour from her humble beginning right up to the height of her fortune. It seems that the king's favorite wasn't always content with what she had. Pompadour ventures out one night and enters an inn where she meets and falls madly in love with Rene Laval, a poor young poet. The plot develops with amazing speed until—well—Pompadour is saved from disastrous ruin by her own quick wits.

"Madame Pompadour" will provide a pleasant hour's entertainment for the average movie fan. Other features on the same program include "Hold Fast," a Cameo comedy; current news events; and five big acts of West Coast theatres vaudeville.

Comedy Film Features Bill At Richmond Theatre Today

A perfect example of modern photoplay comedy construction is now showing at the Richmond Theatre, where Paramount's "Tell It To Sweeney" is being screened. This picture, a comedy of railroad life as it shouldn't be, presents a new team of farceurs, Chester Conklin and George Bancroft, who seem to be congenially cast as partners in the business of manufacturing chuckles.

Cut-and-dried ideas are conspicuously absent from "Tell It To Sweeney." The picture brings one roar after another because of this pair of comedians who are so long experienced in the comedy field.

The story, the work of Percy Heath, Monte Brice and Kerry Clarke, centers about a haughty old engineer and his old-fashioned steed of the thundering rails, both relics of a by-gone era and another engineer of the modern day. Of course, there is romance, plenty of it, and this romance serves to bring about a series of spectacular thrills in which a runaway train plays the principal part. Conklin has the role of Luke Beamish, the out-of-date throttle-pusher, while Bancroft is well suited to the part of Cannonball Case, the Herculean operator of the crack flier.

Beamish's daughter Doris Hill, the fiancée of Jack Sweeney, son of the railroad's owner, meets in love with her. Then the trouble starts. Luke Beamish opposes the suit, by virtue of Cannonball's air of disdain at the ancient locomotive, the pride of Luke's heart. Cannonball tries to bully Luke, who vanquishes him in an amusing wrestling match.

There's plenty of things in the picture to hold the interest of the lover of dramatics, and at the same time the comedy relief is apparent every moment.

Other film features include "Gold Widows," a roaring comedy; and a Grandland Rice "Sportlight."

"Nebber argue wid a Twentieth Century wife."—GARDEN OF THE SHAH.

Five Vaudeville Acts Top Show At California Today

Comedy is the predominating feature on the five act program holding the rostrum of the California Theatre today, when a little music and dance interspersed in the several offerings.

A dainty young singing comedienne with an up to date repertoire with special numbers is Lucille Eelwyn. Her specialty is character comedy selections.

A concoction of cute matchinations bring Flip and Flapper, an elongated comedian and appetite miss, with a neatly unfolded skit full of wise cracks and a clever pantomimic dance.

Harmony singing yodelling and comedy are included in the presentation of Kyrlton Sisters and Mack two pretty girls and a likeable young fellow checkful of personality and possessing plenty of talent in their several lines of endeavor.

Two men from town are Doakes and Doakes who specialize in some cheerful hokum managing at the finish after many efforts to sing several burlesque songs in their own imitable way.

Four girls with music, song and dance billed as the International Revue submit a colorful fifteen minute revue with pretty costumes and a routine of all popular hits.

MISSING LINK COMING FRIDAY TO CALIFORNIA

"I've done many thrilling things" said Syd Chaplin, star of Warner Brothers' production of "The Missing Link" directed by Charles F. Reisner, "but working with the cats which is filmdom's slang for lions, has never given me a kick—not until yesterday. Then I got one big enough to make up for all the others I've missed."

"I was lying face down on the floor with Numa crouched over me. He was slapping, growling and spitting at the trainer off stage as the action of the script demanded. I was registering plenty of fright. All of a sudden the big lion stopped. His silence became oppressive. I looked up quickly and he was hitting there motionless looking right in my eyes. Then I got that thrill. I couldn't move. My will power seemed to be drawn right into those big yellow orbs and drowned."

"Meanwhile Charley Gay, the trainer, was shouting at the top of his voice and cracking his whip off-stage, trying to regain the beast's attention without spoiling the scene. Then suddenly he whipped out his revolver, the only time he used it during the whole picture and fired into the air. That broke the spell. Numa leaped off of me and sneaked into his cage. The gate clattered down and the next second Charley Gay was bawling him out in a torrent of excited French. Then he turned to me: 'Eef I did not get his attention when I did, he said 'he would ha' slapped you silly.'"

Syd Chaplin in "The Missing Link," a Warner Bros. production comes to the California theatre Friday for a run of two days.

Friends and strangers are welcome to this lecture. The time is Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Arrangements are being made to show slides and lecture on the "Cross of Christ." Whether this last venture will go through, is impossible to state at this early date. It will, however, be announced later.

SYD CHAPLIN in a scene for "THE MISSING LINK," a Warner Brothers feature comedy which comes to the California Theatre Friday and Saturday of this week. Syd has the role of a poet.

"Old Ironsides" Opens Monday At California

Richmond is particularly favored by the early opportunity to see "Old Ironsides," the James Cruze production which has been playing at only the largest metropolitan theatres throughout the country. The characters of this stirring story of a great love born amid the roar of cannon and the crash of warring ships are depicted by Wallace Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell, Johnnie Walker and Esther Ralston. "Old Ironsides" opens tomorrow at the California theatre for a run of two days. Here is what some of the critics say of it. "Among the many big pictures, 'Old Ironsides' may claim the title of 'the biggest'."

REMARKABLE SALES RECORD SET BY CHEVROLET MOTORS IN TWELVE-MONTH PERIOD

Increased speed and power, easier steering, four wheel brakes of new design, shock-absorber springs marking an advanced trend toward riding comfort and smoother engine performance are a few of the many mechanical advantages which the 1928 Chevrolet line has over its famous predecessor, according to J. D. Egert, Pacific Coast production manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Vibration has been effectively dealt with by the use of constant clearance alloy "Ivar strut" pistons which make for smoother, more efficient action. Further contributions toward this end were gained by raising the compression ratio and by stepping up the valve lifts. Through these changes faster acceleration and maximum power are developed. Other changes in the engine are to eliminate the annoyance of engine fumes, a new two-port exhaust and a silencing engine enclosure.

The four-wheel brakes are of non-locking design—the product of Chevrolet laboratories plus the facilities of General Motors laboratories and proving grounds. Front brakes are two-shoe energized internals, while the rear brakes are the energized external self wrapping type. Front pairs and rear pairs have been repositioned to prevent side drag or pull. This was done by attaching the front brake rods to bell cranks at the end of one cross shaft, and the rear rods to another cross shaft, while a lever near the center of each of these shafts is hooked up to a curved proportioner on which the brake pedal rod operates.

Particular pains were taken to secure a simple, rapid acting brake with light pedal pressure. Each brake has an individual adjustment at the wheels, while "stops" have been provided to make the adjustment process especially easy.

The initial pedal application throws the front brakes into action. Further application throws front brakes harder into action and also brings the rear brakes into play. Still further pedal pressure brings the rear brakes into full play, so that it is possible to slide the rear wheels on dry pavement under full pressure and not the front wheels.

The effect of this, according to Chevrolet engineers, is to spare the rear brakes all work that could fall on the front brakes in order to get uniform wear on the brake lining.

The springs also are of extraordinary interest. Realizing that all uncomfortable spring action is the result of rebound after striking a bump, Chevrolet engineers set about to increase the friction of the springs and thus check the rebound.

This end was achieved by equipping the springs with special rebound checks. Two checks are on each spring located half way between the center spring shackle and the spring end.

These rebound checks are inverted bow shaped steel leaves assembled under high pressure against the top of the spring leaf, the ends pressing against the top of the leaf, thus increasing the resistance.

So much has the spring friction been increased by this new device that the car is said to ride 50 per cent better than with old type springs. The rebound check also offer greater resistance to bumps so that the springs do not clash against the frame

'27 BUICK SETS NEW RECORD IN NUMBER SOLD

"Throughout 1927 Buick broke all previous sales records each month," declared C. C. Kratzer, local Buick dealer yesterday.

"Riding on the crest of a wave of popularity seldom ever reached by a motor car in its price class, Buick for 1928 soared to new heights in the registration of automobiles in California.

"Sales totaled nearly 200,000 cars last year and established for its distributor, the Howard Automobile company, a firm foothold on its position as the world's largest distributor of automobiles.

"Adding further to the story of Buick's record in 1927 it is pointed out that the high record of 18,819 cars in 1926 was beaten by more than 1000 cars and that Buick's sales figures of last year exceeded by more than 7000 the registrations of the next six-cylinder cars.

"The year-by-year tabulation, with December figures incomplete according to Motor Registration News compilation, showing a great consistent gain in Buick sales, as follows:

1921	5,978
1922	9,448
1923	14,164
1924	10,373
1925	12,688
1926	18,819
1927	19,795

"With this great record to back up the 1928 selling season, this year will be one of the most prosperous in Buick California history," said Kratzer.

"One record after another has fallen to Buick during the past year," he said. "Then since the introduction of 1928 Buicks, we have registered the heaviest sales increases of the year, with every indication that the demand will persist and that Buick will sell at highest volume of all years during the next twelve months.

"Buick's triumph for the year just closed was a marked one in practically every large city of the State. The lead has been consistent throughout, and in many cases the victory has been two to one over any other six-cylinder cars sold in California.

SOCCER TEAM TO BE FORMED HERE TODAY

When the different varieties of soccer players turn out for practice on Nicholl field at 10 o'clock this morning they will be greeted by W. L. "Doc" Seawright who will coach and select a team to represent the city in matches that will be arranged as soon as details necessary in forming a team can be completed.

"We don't expect veteran players. We intend to train those that do come out and develop a team in that way. However, players with experience will be heartily welcome," said Seawright.

There will be several veteran players on hand to assist in the formation and coaching of the team.

Gately Sisters Richmond Club Tennis Winners

First elimination games of the women's division of the Richmond Tennis club played on the municipal courts were won by Mary Gately over Beth Whitlock 6-0 and 6-0, while Helen Gately defeated Marie Hughes, 6-0, 6-2, and 6-0.

Play among the women of the club will continue until the ranking of the players have been determined, and then representative teams will be picked to take part in the inter-club matches, and state championship matches to be held in the near future.

Tennis Club To Meet Stockton

Acceptance of a team match issued by the Stockton Tennis club has been accepted by the Richmond club, and will be played in Stockton February 26, according to W. L. "Doc" Seawright, president of the club. Last year the two clubs played to a tie, and this match should decide the winner.

A. S. Remmell, chairman of the committee, conducting the elimination tournament among the members of the club to select a team to represent Richmond in the inter-club meets reported on the progress of the tournament. Discussion regarding the women's tournaments were held.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

By WAITE HOYT

The enterprising young gentleman whose features are three-sheeted at the top of this column got me into this, and it is up to him to get me out. It is a long column that has no turning, and a long day its composition requires. I pity the reader who must struggle through several hundred words of this, but it is his own fault if he looks at that picture over it. However, I have work to do, so I may as well get started. I was asked to write "something about baseball." That is all well and good if you know just what that "something" is.

The first thing that comes to my mind is, of course, pitching. In the summer time we receive letters from aspiring young players requesting advice on "How to become pitchers." For my own sake as well as theirs I wish there was some concrete formula to which you would refer in time of trouble—some code which only necessitated turning to page thirty-nine to find the explanation—such as: "After throwing two fast balls in succession the sure preventive for a base hit is to merely throw a curve which will cause the batter to pop up to the catcher (Editor's note. Scientists engaged in baseball research have proved this method infallible). But alas, and alack, there is no such convenience for the poor pitcher, neither is there any specific advice to be given to the young, misguided lad who would a pitcher's life endure.

LEARNING THE LESSON OF PATIENCE

Being one of those unfortunate who have naturally given the subject most of my time and thought. Perhaps the hardest thing I had to learn was to take my time. Huggins tried for years to cram that idea into my skull and was only partly successful. I took many a beating before I admitted that he was right and I was wrong. Up until the season of 1926 I had never really studied any pitcher, preferring to fathom my own problems and letting it go at that. Only three pitchers ever impressed me to any extent, Mathewson, Alexander and Johnson. (The three greatest of all time in my opinion, with Johnson the greatest of all). Mathewson and Alexander both were fast workers. As soon as they received the ball from their catcher they delivered it. So it seemed. In my arguments with Huggins I always held them up for example.

Alexander and Matty worked fast and did pretty well. I'd say, "You, but you're not either one of those two birds," Hug would reply.

But I still persisted in my determination to get rid of the ball as quickly as possible. I reasoned from this angle. I had always heard that pitchers developed into certain types, being governed by the influence of their character.

STYLE INFLUENCED BY TEMPERAMENT

In baseball there are fast workers, slow workers, pitchers who fight themselves (hotheads), pitchers who fool too much, and those without any confidence in the ability. Character is always exemplified when the owner is in a tough spot, and pitching is just one tough spot after another. So, I figured, I am by nature excitable and impulsive. I therefore would have to adjust my pitching tempo to my mental structure. Walling made me nervous and irritable. The ball in my hand always seemed like a hot potato. I did not believe I could ever slow myself down without revamping my entire disposition. I sort of resigned myself to the class of fast workers, hoping against hope that it would pan out all right.

But I continued to lose lots of games I should have won. And after each "flub" would say: "You'll listen to me yet and surprise yourself. Look at Penneck. He takes his time, gives himself a chance to get set, not only on his feet, but in his mind."

"Sure," I'd reply. "But he is naturally easy going. His pitching follows right in with the way he does everything. Don't you think you would hurt his pitching if you tried to speed him up?"

"Of course, but that would be asking him to do something which I don't think is good for any pitcher. He fortunately has an attribute which you must acquire. Haven't you heard it said that a puff on a cigar has often given a business man time to collect his thoughts before committing himself? Well, that is what you should do. Not puff a cigar, but collect your reasoning power a little if you have any. Watch Penneck a little and yourself a lot."

From that time on I did, and from that time on I learned many things which were not apparent before. I discovered that by taking more time between pitches the batters revealed their weaknesses definitely. That my dilatory tactics reacted on their nervous system the same as it used to react on mine. I found myself becoming more careful in my delivery, clarifying in my mind the picture of the spot I aimed at. In other words it taught me "Discretion is the better part of valor."

Stanley Coveleskie, the Polish spitballer, who will try a comeback stunt with the Yanks this season, may go to Hot Springs first, to begin the task of working his ailing pitching arm back into shape. Benny Benbough, who also has a temperamental flipper, may go along too.

Carmen Play Doubleheader

This morning at 11:30 o'clock Richmond Carmen will meet the Arcade Dancers in the Maxwell Winter League at Bay View, and when the Carmen have played that game they will be ready to take on the San Pablo garage team this afternoon.

The San Pablos had a game scheduled with the Vierra Billiards but the latter team had to forfeit, so the Pablo boys will have an advantage as far as rest is concerned, over the Carmen when they meet for the afternoon contest.

San Pablo has been selected as the place for the contest of the afternoon where Buttsbach for Garagemen and Pinto for the Carmen will engage in the duel on the mound. English will probably be pitched by the Carmen in their morning game.

FIGHTING BOYS AT EL CERRITO THIS FRIDAY

When "Click" Roach climbs into the ring to face Tim Vahey at Joe Rossi's fight show Friday night at El Cerrito he is going to put a lot of gloves in his opponents face if Vahey isn't prepared to ward them off. Vahey, on the other hand, is not green in the matter of giving and taking punches and will be there at every movement of the Vallejo boy.

Then there is the George Matty "Tiger" Bob Robinson fight that is going to be witnessed with a great deal of enjoyment for Matty is going to get a real workout when he mixes with the dusty boy. Matty has knocked out his last two opponents. Wolf Emmitt and Billie Cannanough, but if he succeeds in his efforts to put over the punch this time, he will be heralded as the coming middleweight champion of the coast.

Joe Limas will have a chance to show his own El Cerritoos that he is as good against Mickey Doolan, Oakland scrapper as any other boy. It is just possible that he may do the trick too, even though Doolan is not the pink tea type of fighter. To make an impression on his home town, Limas will have to show all he has, to overcome the Oaklander.

Al McDonald and Niles Shaffer will maul away at each other in their own styles and the fight may go four rounds and again if one of the boys lands one of their haymakers on the right part of the anatomy sleep is likely to follow. Pete Marshall of El Cerrito will fight for the second time for the purpose of winning by a knockout over Jimmy Reese of Oakland. That is how he won his first fight and he is out to keep up the record. Anyway he will know all about it next Friday.

Mate Recovers, Wife To Sue

Boy Scouts Seek Off-Hour Work

Part time work or odd jobs of delivering bundles, chopping wood, mowing lawns, or cleaning back yards, is being looked for by Boy Scouts of the city, according to an announcement by Claude E. Clark, vice-president of the county council and vice-chairman of the district council, to the public in an effort to find work from the public for the boys.

Work is wanted by nearly every boy in the city, and they are available after school, Saturdays, and holidays. Any one who wishes to communicate with Clark may do so and the desired help will be supplied.

Interest Sold In Garage Here

S. R. Welch has sold a half interest in the garage at the corner of Seventh street and Nevin avenue, to E. F. Ketchum, and the business will be operated under the name of the Nevin Garage. They are the Richmond agents for National batteries. As a new battery charging equipment has been installed they will specialize in battery recharging, and the handling of Goodrich tires.

Welch has been in business here for the past four years, while Ketchum has recently come from New Mexico. Both men have had extensive experience in the automobile business.

Loyalty Service At First Presbyterian

The Loyalty month program continues at the Presbyterian church and tomorrow is being observed as Visitors' Day. The members of the church are engaged in friendly rivalry to see who will bring the most visitors. The evening service is in charge of the women and special sections of the church will be reserved for women. Of course, the men are invited to attend, but they had their service last Sunday evening and set a high standard which the women hope to surpass. Mrs. S. R. Alexander is presiding at the services. Mrs. J. T. Conwell will give a reading and Mrs. C. A. Norwell will lead in prayer. In addition to the music by the choir, Mrs. Ross Calfee will sing a solo, and Mrs. Calfee and Mrs. Cooper will sing a duet.

Sardine Spawning Continues Here

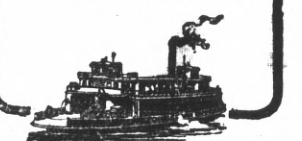

Sardine herrings are spawning by the millions around the Farr Terminal and Standard Oil Co. wharves according to declaration by water front workers. The length of the stay of the sardine, known in the past to come here only for a few weeks each year, has passed all previous records according to those acquainted with the habits of the fish. The schools of fish have been seen for the past three weeks.

Several tons of the small fish have been taken out of the water in the last few days by simply lowering a net.

of Fong Wan's new book on Herbs Ready for Distribution

Never before has a Chinese Herbalist written a book in English. The revised edition of "Herb Lore," just off the press, contains numerous articles on Chinese Herbal Remedies, Theories and Methods of Treating Various Ailments, all written by Fong Wan himself. The contents of this book are very different from those of books composed by advertising agencies or by employed authors. The herbalists who publish such books are not even able to read what the books contain.

Fong Wan's book is designed to set forth clearly the nature and preparation of herbs, and to show how these wonderful gifts of Mother Nature are used, in accordance with the ancient Chinese Theories, to combat disease in its various forms. The book also contains approximately 200 testimonials, given chiefly by East Bay people who have been freed from suffering by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs.

One copy may be obtained free by each family if called for at the Fong Wan Office, or a copy will be mailed to any address upon request and receipt of 10 cents in stamps.

SAFETY, EASE PROVIDED IN WILLYS-KNIGHT

While the Willys-Knight great six cars are marked by their beauty and luxurious appointments, engineers have taken great pains to provide safety, comfort and smoothness. They have employed a double drop frame to swing the weight close to the ground. This also brings the body low, which provides riding smoothness and gives great road stability, points out Hourtane & McQuone, Willys-Knight and Whippet dealers.

"The double drop frame construction permits fast driving without the dangers that are apparent in cars that have bodies carried high in the air," said Hourtane. "Another safety feature of this fine car is its four-wheel brake equipment. Four-wheel brakes are now standard equipment on all product of the Willys-Overland Company."

"Contributing to the fine riding qualities of the great six are the Belfex spring shackles, which are standard equipment of this automobile. All road shocks are absorbed by these shackles, and they also permit free springing flexure, which reduces wear to a minimum on all parts of the car."

"The Willys-Knight great six is powered with the improved Willys-Knight six-cylinder sleeve valve engine. Because of its construction and full force feed lubrication system, it is capable of maintaining high speed hour after hour. There is a total absence of vibration in this motor at practically all speeds. It is unusually quick acceleration, which is a very important feature of heavy traffic driving. Engineers point out that this car has ample power and speed for all demands, operates smoothly, efficiently, smoothly, and is built to have long life."

Under-Inflation Held Cause Of Tire Damages

Under-inflation is responsible for more damage to tires than any other one thing.

The air in the tire actually supports the load when the proper pressure is maintained and the tire acts as a container for the air and performs its duties without over strain. Extra weight is thrown on the side walls causing them to bend and strain resulting in fabric breaks and cord separation, when tires are under-inflated.

Cord breaks occur more readily in under-inflated tires than in those carrying full pressure. The sidewalls or tread may be easily crushed against the rim if the under-inflated tire receives a sharp blow. Such treatment results in carcass breaks and ruptures, broken buttons, curbs, tracks and similar road conditions that are met in everyday driving, all add to the necessity of keeping tires fully inflated.

An inner tube which is said to reduce under-inflation to a minimum has recently been introduced through the Western Auto Supply Company stores, according to local manager, R. J. Kelly.

"This new tube is composed of pure gum rubber," says Kelly, "and being free from compounds is practically non-porous and will retain original air pressure for a long period of time. The Polson tube shows remarkable ability in cushioning the sharp blows that would ordinarily break the cords and fabric and absorbs the shock without any damage to the tire. A heavy inner crescent of pure, highly compressed Para rubber distributes the force of the blow over a wide area thereby preventing cord breaks and ruptures. Two casings of the same make and size were recently used in a service test—one equipped with a Polson tube and the other with an ordinary, good quality tube. The tire with the Polson equipment delivered approximately thirty percent more mileage than the other tire."

The history of the San Pablo school, the pioneer institution of education in the Richmond district furnishes considerable interest.

San Pablo was one of the very first Spanish land grants and the school district in the earlier years stretched its jurisdiction clear to the Contra Costa-Alameda county line near Albany, along the crest of the range of hills, lying to the east, to and including the present tank farm, thence west to the bay, embracing what is now San Pablo, El Cerrito, Stege, Richmond and Sobraña school districts and the first classes were organized during the stirring days of the civil war.

8 ROOM STRUCTURE
The largest population being centered in San Pablo, itself, it was logical that the school should be located where it would accommodate the largest number of patrons, hence a three room frame structure was erected on the road at the place where the eucalyptus trees are now standing on the west side of San Pablo avenue at the point where the car line turned toward Alvarado park. In 1880 one of the rooms of this building was utilized for a wood shed and another room, and another room known as the new primary room was built. Three teachers were employed at this central school.

To accommodate the people in the southern end of the district, a branch, known as the Castro school was established near the county line and one teacher was placed there. This building was later moved to a point near Stege Junction, where the trustees had purchased an acre of land for a school site. This removal occurred about 40 years ago and the old building is still standing and, was recently incorporated into the St. John's Catholic church and is now part of that structure.

When the present Stege school house was built, Stege separated from the San Pablo district, but not before Giant, which withdrew a few years earlier.

MOVED TO GIANT
A third school was erected on the hill past the tank farm where the gum trees now stand. This building was later moved to Giant when the district was formed.

In the early 90's the people in the west end requested that a school be placed near them and one was established at Mayket and Kearney streets. This building was later abandoned for school purposes and was converted into a store building, which still stands. Mrs. Wendell, who taught at the Central San Pablo school was placed in charge and was the first teacher of the "depot" school.

At that time the San Pablo district enjoyed the distinction of employing the most teachers and having the largest attendance of any district in Contra Costa county. The school term extended over a period of six to eight months and the principal received a salary of $100 per month and assistant teachers from $50 to $60 each per month.

NEW DISTRICT FORMED
The Richmond district had been formed meantime, and when a new building was dedicated in 1900 on the present school premises, the other school sites were abandoned and all the pupils were housed at this central point, under the supervision of a principal and two assistants.

There is nothing definite as to the names of the early teachers who pioneered, but it is known that at a very early date, Mr.

A Thurber served two years, 1887-1889, and was followed in succession by Mr. Sasman, A. K. Sheats and Mrs. Benedict, now Mrs. W. T. McClellan.

HELMS PRINCIPAL
Walter T. Helms, now superintendent of Richmond schools, in 1900, dedicated the two-story frame structure, which is just now being wrecked, to make room for the new court, which is part of the building program of the present board of trustees.

W. S. Clyma came after Mr. Helms. Then came W. F. Frost, Mark Sickle and another Mr. Seaman. Next there were Mrs. Elch, Mr. Scott, Mrs. Keeler and W. L. Rutherford. It was during this period that part of the present structure was projected and erected.

In 1926, E. A. Palmer took charge and is now guiding the destinies of a school which has an attendance of nearly 400 pupils with a teaching staff of eleven.

New Tub Prevents Tire Inflation

UNDER-INFLATION is responsible for more damage to tires than any other one thing. Above photos from the Western Auto Supply Company show inside breaks and loosened cords resulting from this abuse; and section of tire equipped with the new, improved type inner tube which is said to reduce under-inflation to a minimum.

of San Pablo avenue will be brought to school in the bus as they are at the present time, and this plan will be followed until arrangements can be completed for the safety of the children crossing the highway. Police department and the city manager working with the superintendent of school will arrange for this matter.

Contracts for the new building were let to general contractor, J. S. Hannah in June 1927 at $104,870. Work was started immediately and the building ready for occupancy, according to information released by the superintendent's office last evening.

The general plan of the building includes a boy's and girl's gym, besides the heating plant in the basement; the first floor is occupied by the principals' office, the auditorium and four class rooms; while the top floor contains six class rooms.

With the transferring of pupils to the new school building, conditions at the Grant elementary school which have been considerably overcrowded, will be satisfactory, according to Superintendent Helms.
